Study Title: Adelaide Hills Palliative Care Project (National Rural Palliative Care Program)
Brief description of the study: The Rural Palliative Care program, using 8 separate pilot projects nationwide, specifically aims to support the development of more collaborative models of palliative care, for people living in rural and remote areas, built around the pivotal role played by general practice. The program draws on key aspects taken from the GAPS model and examines how these are transferred and applied using varied approaches across a range of settings. Implementation of the Adelaide Hills Palliative Care Project has included: the governance committee; the clinical forum; the GP Advisor role; the link nurse group; education strategies; and community engagement.
