

Education

As a health professional, you know that continued lifelong learning supports you to provide the best care for your patients. The CareSearch Education section will help you explore your learning options in palliative care and equip you with the capabilities you need to care for people who are dying.

When you visit www.caresearch.com.au/education, you'll see four buttons:

Health Workforce Options

Click on 'Health Workforce Options' to access a range of major education and training initiatives funded by the government, view postgraduate programs, explore upcoming conferences, short courses, and workshops, view web-based learning and teaching resources, and find out about gaining clinical experience.

Educator and Manager Supports

Educators and managers can use the palliative care workforce development framework, create a program or activity for staff, and develop skills in teaching and learning. Discover how to integrate palliative care into learning, build its capacity in your organisation and provide you with resources for workforce development.

Volunteer and Carer Learning

You can point carers, family members and volunteers to this section. It will help them find community education and eLearning materials that will help them understand what palliative care is and how to best support the person needing care, whether that be with practical caring techniques or effective communication.

Whole of Workforce Framework

The National Palliative Care Workforce Development Framework provides guidance for individual health care providers, education providers, health service managers and policy makers to ensure that professionals are equipped to provide care for people who are dying. Learn more about the Framework in this section.

Find out more at www.caresearch.com.au/education or navigate directly to the website on your mobile by scanning this code with your QR scanner.

